

FRISKING THE TECHNOLOGIST

R. Nader, P. Petkas, K. Blackwell, Eds. , Whistle Blowing (N.Y.: Grossman 1972).

Engineers and chemists are among the first to know about industrial dumping, defective industrial design, and insufficiently tested drugs. They are also the first to realize how to prevent any harmful effects of technical developments. "But they are very often the last to speak out".

Engineer's Code

cited in this book

Chemist's Creed

Zw 83202
FT 363